

10 reasons to spend £10 a month

- ◆ The RPSA is the only trade association supporting surveyors holding the Diploma in Home Inspection and the Diploma in Residential Surveying
 - ◆ The Council and Secretariat of the RPSA work tirelessly to promote the services of the Association and its members at local, national and Government level, to ensure that members are supported by an instantly recognisable brand and logo
 - ◆ The RPSA represents its members, and promotes their interests, at national and at Government level, sitting as equals alongside RICS, UK Mortgage Finance Lenders, BSA, FCA, surveyor panels and all the other key stakeholders in the property industry
 - ◆ The RPSA has been the driving force in developing the DipRSurv and DipRSurvVal qualifications allowing members direct entry to Associate membership of the RICS, particularly for those who wish to carry out valuation work
 - ◆ The RPSA is actively involved in developing and shaping new and relevant, qualifications and products that will help members develop their own careers
 - ◆ The RPSA has been the driving force in developing the DipRSurv and DipRSurvVal qualifications allowing members direct entry to Associate membership of the RICS, particularly for those who wish to carry out valuation work
 - ◆ The RPSA promotes the Home Condition Survey in the trade and public media at every possible opportunity with the objective of providing members with a route to market
 - ◆ We provide members with low-cost, highly relevant CPD events, including an annual conference with keynote industry speakers. Just compare our CPD prices with those of the RICS
 - ◆ The RPSA operates a panel providing work directly to members through existing and newly developing channels
 - ◆ All of the Council members work in an entirely voluntary capacity. Not one single penny of members' fees goes into the pockets of those members that work to help develop the Association
- But most important of all is that we are a friendly, approachable and fun group that exists with the sole purpose of helping you to succeed.

Member Benefits

Unlike other surveyors associations, the RPSA is run by its members, for its members. Every member has an equal say in the running of the Association, and every voice is listened to.

The world of residential property surveying has undergone monumental changes in recent years and the RPSA is the only Association working to fill the skills gap that has opened up in the industry.

There has never been a better time to be a residential surveyor, and the RPSA is making sure that its members are at the forefront of the opportunities that are available.
